The NSA Chair may elect to allow additional public comment on a specific agenda item when that agenda item is being considered.

   In accordance with Attorney General Opinion No. 00-047, as restated in the Attorney General’s Open Meeting Law Manual, the NSA Chair may prohibit comment if the content of that comment is a topic that is not relevant to, or within the authority of, the NSA, or if the content is willfully disruptive of the meeting by being irrelevant, repetitious, slanderous, offensive, inflammatory, irrational or amounting to personal attacks or interfering with the rights of other speakers.

Chair Fabbi requests approval of the contents of the finalized report, which will afterwards be shared with the Board and Chancellor.
8. PROPOSED NSA CONSTITUTIONAL REVISION

Based on discussion by the Alliance at the March 3, 2016 meeting, NSA Chair Caden Fabbi requests NSA members to consider a constitutional amendment regarding ex-officio members. The proposed amendment would allow each NSA voting member to appoint multiple ex-officio members to the Alliance, rather than only one as current language permits. In addition, the requirement that ex-officio NSA members be officers of a member student government would be removed, and the requirement would instead be that the ex-officio member must be currently enrolled at one of the member institutions. See posted comments from James Martines referencing the multiple ex-officio members change.

9. CHANCELLOR’S FACULTY PAY WORKING GROUP

Chancellor Daniel J. Klaich convened a Faculty Pay Working Group on November 24, 2015 to review salary policies of the System and its institutions to determine if those policies are proper to advance the interests of NSHE. Comments will be limited to three minutes per person. Persons making comment will be asked to begin by stating their name for the record and to spell their last name. The NSA Chair may elect to allow additional public comment on a specific agenda item when that agenda item is being considered.

In accordance with Attorney General Opinion No. 00-047, as restated in the Attorney General’s Open Meeting Law Manual, the NSA Chair may prohibit comment if the content of that comment is a topic that is not relevant to, or within the authority of, the NSA, or if the content is willfully disruptive of the meeting by being irrelevant, repetitious, slanderous, offensive, inflammatory, irrational or amounting to personal attacks or interfering with the rights of other speakers.

Nevada Student Alliance State of Student Advising Report

(Draft 3/3/16)

Written and Compiled by the Nevada Student Alliance (NSA) for the Nevada System of Higher Education Board of Regents
At the September 2015 Nevada Student Alliance meeting, concerns were expressed regarding the quality and quantity of student advising on NSHE campuses to the Chancellor and Board leadership. The Alliance was asked to research this topic on each of their respective campuses and compile a report for dissemination to the Chancellor, staff and Regents. This report contains these findings, broken down by institution and based upon the findings by each of the Student Body Presidents.

-Caden Fabbi, NSA Chair
Advising Report for College of Southern Nevada

At the College of Southern Nevada, advising and counseling services have become to separate departments, each with different goals and purposes. The counseling department helps students that have already declared a major and need assistance with graduation evaluations, degree audits, excess fee appeals, and various other issues. Counselors tend to base their work on quality, and tend to meet with less students on average compared to advisors. The advising department, on the other hand, meets with first time students to help the find the correct path in their first semester, and help students develop academic success strategies.

In the 2015 year, the Advising Department met with over 18,000 students. 3,000 of those students completed the email or paper survey that is administered to them one day after their appointment (the change from paper to email surveys occurred in October 2015. Respondents gave mostly positive feedback for a number of reasons. This is likely because the Advising Department has increased its number of communication outlets. Students are able to make in-person appointments from thirty minutes to an hour, and are also able to receive quicker feedback via email (the department has a 48 hour email-respondent requirement.) The Department also provides an online video chat room, which allows students to talk with an advisor from their own homes. This also enables advisors to meet with larger number of students at various times.

The department has also implemented a peer advising program for students. After meeting with an advisor, students can meet with a peer student advisor who can answer additional questions that the student may not have felt comfortable asking their advisor. The peer advisors help bridge the gap between faculty and students, as they can get a student perspective that they can relate to. Peer advisors have engaged with over 40 percent of the students that have met with a professional advisor.

As a whole, advising has got a long way to go on finding better ways to collect data from students to better analyze their success and opportunities, but the initiatives that have been implemented have greatly helped students identify the resources they need to be successful.
Advising Report for Truckee Meadows Community College

TMCC’s Academic Advisement is a centralized office with seven full-time Academic Advisors, 2-3 peer advisors, and generally 1-2 Graduate Student Interns serving all student populations on campus. All appointments are scheduled are 30 minutes in length. The office also coordinates transfer events and workshops, pre-professional student programming, Early Alert, Excess Credit Fee appeals, major exploration, international student advising, new student orientation, and course substitution requests. Each advisor is assigned to coordinate one of the above areas in addition to keeping up with an academic division at TMCC and the corresponding division at UNR. Every week, a department at UNR or TMCC presents programmatic updates to the staff to ensure quality and accuracy of information provided to students during appointments.

The office has grown and expanded access to students since FY14. In FY15, the office was up 151.9% in overall student appointments compared to the previous year. Each academic advisor sees approximately 900-1200 students in one-on-one advising appointments over the course of a year; two additional advisors added in FY16 increased the appointment capacity by 1800-2400 appointments for the year. As you can see from the chart below, TMCC is on target to see over 10,000 students in individual appointments by FY16 close. Orientation, housed in the Academic Advisement office, runs approximately 120 group workshops for students for summer/fall and the majority of those students are yet to be seen this year, with orientation programs starting in April of this year.

The longest wait time that a student waited to make an appointment with an academic advisor was 4 working days during the week, which was before the academic semester began in August of 2015. Students are also able to have quick questions answered by calling the “Quick Answer” advisor or coming in to the office and speaking to the advisor on duty at the Quick Answer desk, which has greatly reduced appointment wait times. For most of the year, there are next day-of appointments available.
Advising Report for Great Basin College

A year after a student receives their degree/certificate from Great Basin College, a graduate survey is sent to them with a variety of questions, including a few on their advising experiences. Advising is highly utilized by students at GBC from both departmental faculty and staff/employees. One question in the survey asks which services students used the most in their time at the college, of which 66.2 percent of respondents said one-on-one advising, so it is clearly a service that is highly utilized by the student body. Below are some of the results of this survey.

In a more recent survey, conducted in 2015, 56.29 percent of students reported feeling satisfied with GBC’s advising services, with only 1.9 percent reporting feeling unsatisfied ($n=421$).

Generally, students appear to be satisfied with quantity/quality of campus advising at Great Basin College.
Advising Report for Western Nevada College

Western Nevada College (WNC) surveys its students biannually. These surveys are done through the Community College Survey of Student Engagement (CCSSE) and Noel-Levitz Student Satisfaction Inventory. Surveys are alternated each year they send them out to the students. For example, in the spring of 2014, WNC used CCSSE, and in spring of 2016, they will be using Noel-Levitz.

The data that is provided about academic advising at WNC is from the CCSSE 2014 Means Report. Questions that were asked and their results can be seen below.

1) In your experience at this college during the current school year, about how often have you done each of the following (1=Never, 2=Sometimes, 3=Often, 4=Very Often)?
   - Talked about career plans with an instructor or advisor –
     Part-time students: 2.03
     Full-students: 2.33
     All Students: 2.2

2) How much does this college emphasize each of the following (1=Very little, 2=Some, 3=Quite a bit, 4=Very much)?
   - Providing the support you need to help you succeed at this college [SUPPORT]
     Part-time students: 2.95
     Full-time students: 3.04
     All Students: 3

3) How satisfied are you with the following services at this college (1=Not at all, 2=Somewhat, 3=Very)?
   - Academic advising/planning [SUPPORT]
     Part-time students: 2.3
     Full-time students: 2.3
     All Students: 2.3
   - Career Counseling
     Part-time students: 2.11
     Full-time students: 2.17
     All Students: 2.14
As stated above, the Noel Levitz Student Satisfaction Inventory survey will be given to the students this spring semester. The questions that students are asked to rate in Noel Levitz in regards to academic advising are:

- My academic advisor is approachable.
- My academic advisor helps me set goals to work toward.
- My academic advisor is concerned about my success as an individual.
- My academic advisor is knowledgeable about my program requirements.
- My academic advisor is knowledgeable about the transfer requirements of other schools.
- Academic support services adequately meet the needs of students.

Additional questions were added to the Noel-Levitz Student Satisfaction Inventory in a collaboration between the Associated Students of Western Nevada (ASWN), the Institutional Research Director, and the Director of Counseling. The survey may shape the direction of the future of WNC Counseling, as there is a possibility that the data may show that students prefer to have an academic advisor assigned to them; many students only meet with their advisor when they first start off at WNC and again when they are about to graduate.

As of right now, students at WNC can drop in and see a counselor when they would like, or they can also make an appointment and ask to see particular counselor that they are comfortable with. The counselors at WNC are very flexible and are really good at seeing students as soon as they can. Of course, there are those days where it can be really busy and a student has to wait to see a counselor. The max time a student has to wait to see a counselor usually does not exceed more two weeks. There are also alternatives for academic assistance other than the counseling center here at WNC. There is the Latino Cohort, Veterans Center, Academic Success Center, or an individual faculty members.

4) How important are the following services to you at this college (1=Not at all, 2=Somewhat, 3=Very)?

- Academic advising/planning –
  All Students: 2.55
- Career counseling
  All Students: 2.4

5) How often do you use the following services at this college? (1=Rarely/Never, 2=Sometimes, 3=Often)?

- Academic advising/planning: 1.81
- Career counseling: 1.59
Advising Report for Nevada State College

-3 advisors currently that oversee all of our students

-One advisor for psychology, history, and business majors

-One other advisor for all our education and Biology students.

-One advisor for all math and Nursing students.

Because of lack of access to academic advisors, this leads most of our students to look for other faculty on campus for support.

The Advising Center is trying to improve their services and is working to get more advisors.
Advising at the University of Nevada, Reno may happen in many different forms: by major, at the college level, or in a specific on-campus activity, depending on the help needed. The University Advising Center advises undeclared, general studies, non-degree seeking and pre-professional students. Students in the Honors Program may receive personalized advising, as well as student-athletes. There are numerous faculty/major advisors as well at the college-level, who can help students decide on courses to take and ensure that they are on the track to graduation. These advisors take the bulk of our students.

Students are surveyed regularly about their advising experience at the University in order to identify potential quantitative and qualitative improvements. The survey can be broken down by class standing, gender, race/ethnicity, enrollment status, grade point average, academic college, and more. The survey results shown below are a summary of student advising feelings across the entire campus, including Honors and student-athletes, based on the survey conducted in the Spring of 2015.

Based upon this data, students are generally very satisfied with the availability and quality of on-campus advising. This is likely because in recent years, the University has invested resources in creating professional advising positions in each of the colleges to work with students. In 2014, the professional advisor to student ratio was at 871:1, and the University Master Plan calls for lowering that ratio to 500:1 by the year 2021, so professional advising positions are being added annually both to keep up with enrollment growth and still improve the advising experience of the UNR student body.
Advising Report for University of Nevada, Las Vegas

UNLV has 11 academic advising centers on campus—one for each of the academic colleges, one for the Academic Success Center, and one for the Honors College. In 2014, 18,425 unique students were seen by the advising centers (see the breakdown of the students below by major/center).

According to the 2014 UNLV Academic Advising Annual Report, UNLV’s advisor to student ratio is 1:639, and 73.18% sought out advising in the 2014 year. Both of these statistics are broken down by college below.
It appears that the majority of UNLV students are advised at least once each year. UNLV advising hopes to continue its efforts to ensure that all students meet regularly with an advisor in order to stay on track to graduate in four years.
Advising Report for UNR and UNLV Graduate Schools and Desert Research Institute

Advising for Graduate Students is slightly different than undergraduates. All graduate students need to complete a plan of study, which allows the graduate student to select an advising committee, with a primary advisor and outside-department advisor to help the students navigate their academic journey.

The nature of the advising relationship seems to vary dependent on program, professor, and student. Landing somewhere on a continuum between minimal guidance/support to very structured guidance/support, but these components vary depending on student, professor, and program of study.

There is no formal advising at DRI. Students approach their program directors for advice on which classes are important and relevant for them. Currently, interviews are being carried out for an Assistant Vice President of Research, and part of their role will be to oversee the GRAD Association and will hopefully improve our advising and surveying system in the near future.
