

Guy Clifton

Guy Clifton is an award-winning journalist, author and Nevada history buff. He was raised in Gabbs and attended Gabbs schools before attending the University of Nevada, Reno and the Reynolds School of Journalism.

At the university, he was on the staff of the Nevada Sagebrush 86 newspaper, including serving as editor in 1985-86. He started his professional career as sports editor of the North Lake Tahoe Bonanza in 1986 before serving as editor of The Record-Courier in Gardnerville. His 30-year newspaper career is perhaps best known for the 22 years he spent at the Reno Gazette-Journal in a variety of roles.

Clifton is the author of eight books, all with Nevada themes, including the popular “You Know You’re A Nevadan, if...” series.
